New FDA Regulatory Site to Promote Discussions in the Healthcare and Life Sciences Industries

Philadelphia, PA, Release: August 1, 2020.

FDA regulatory attorney Darshan Kulkarni has launched a new site about the life science and healthcare sectors. The site is a forum to hear Darshan discuss the direction healthcare is taking, and how the life sciences are continuing to evolve. The DarshanTalks website offers professionals within the life sciences an opportunity to hear from industry leaders and stay informed about current topics relating to pharmacy and healthcare such as drug costs, FDA regulations and breaking topics like drug reimportation and patient engagement including discussions about the COVID-19 crisis.

The DarshanTalks site offers an archive of past podcast episodes, upcoming speaking events with Darshan, and a press kit for those wishing to book Darshan for a speaking engagement.

More information can be found at: <https://www.darshantalks.com>

Anyone with an interest in keeping up with current issues within the life science industry can head over to the DarshanTalks website and explore the new format. The site is designed to provide companies and individuals with the information they need to stay on top of regulatory issues in their field. Come hear FDA regulatory attorney Darshan Kulkarni interview entrepreneurs in the life sciences on his podcast, DarshanTalks. Each week, Darshan covers topics from regulatory concerns to broader issues such as patient centricity and data transparency with his guests. DarshanTalks is a valuable resource for life science professionals who want to learn more about navigating clinical regulations, product launches and life science marketing.

Join Darshan as he explores important topics including drug pricing and the emergence of virtual engagement for HCP and patients.

The site also provides a list of upcoming conferences for which Darshan will be a featured speaker. These conferences offer life science professionals a chance to engage with regulatory experts and successfully navigate issues including data transparency, health IT and FDA regulations.

DarshanTalks provides companies and individuals with a way to connect with Darshan directly and stay informed about current issues in the life sciences. Those who are interested in scheduling a consultation or booking Darshan for a conference can either email client relations associate Sarah Vince at sarah@kulkarnilawfirm.com or get in touch using the contact form provided on the site.
